A Dental Home is an environment where the patient and dentist have a comfortable, trusting relationship with one another. This relationship is established over time and the patient feels at ease knowing his or her dental health will be managed in a comprehensive manner.

What a Dental Home Means to Me

Whether it was during my time in residency in Lexington, Ky. in 1982 or throughout my years of practice in Paducah, Ky., the commitment of parents who make the effort to bring their children to the dentist inspires me. These parents recognize the value of good oral health for their children and they appreciate how good oral health affects every aspect of their child's life.

Many other parents recognize the importance of oral health for their children, but the day-to-day family challenges they face often make quality dental care for their children seem impossible. We all know the statistics:

- 44 percent of American children will suffer from pediatric dental disease before they reach kindergarten.
- 73 percent of preschoolers and 48 percent of primary school age children who have experienced cavities currently have unfilled cavities.
- Only 1.5 percent of 1-year-olds have had a dental office visit compared with 89 percent who have had an office-based physician visit.

That's why all of us at Healthy Smiles, Healthy Children: The Foundation of the American Academy of Pediatric Dentistry have made it our mission to support community-based efforts to provide Dental Homes to children whose families cannot afford dental care. Since 2010, we've issued more than $700,000 in grants and program support to agencies and organizations in 17 states that have helped more than 100,000 children – and we're just getting warmed up.

In 2014, we hope to release as much as $400,000 in new grants and we're exploring our options for doing even more. Our goal: To award at least $1 million annually in support of Access to Care initiatives nationwide by 2016.

As you'll see in the pages of this 2014 Annual Report, Healthy Smiles, Healthy Children encompasses a growing national collaboration of AAPD members, dental industry leaders and community service providers who are making a difference in children's oral health. We are grateful to our donors, volunteers and grantees who are doing so much in helping provide Dental Homes to children in need.

We're blessed with remarkable people in every corner of the Academy who appreciate the value of the Dental Home. That's why we've included some of their voices in these pages to illustrate, as do our grantees, that Dental Homes can come in many different forms.

To me, a Dental Home is a place a parent can bring his or her child knowing that child will leave the dentist better off than when he or she came in. A Dental Home provides an environment where, because the child will view the visit as a positive experience, the parent will be happy to return with the child for his or her ongoing care.

On behalf of the Board of Trustees of Healthy Smiles, Healthy Children, the Officers and Trustees of the American Academy of Pediatric Dentistry, and our dedicated volunteers and staff, we are pleased to present this 2014 Annual Report.

Every child deserves a Dental Home. Thank you for playing your part.

Gratefully,

Beverly A. Largent, DMD
President

Thank you to the leaders, volunteers and staff who make Healthy Smiles, Healthy Children an emerging presence in child oral health philanthropy.

Shared Accomplishments, Progress Made and Future Plans

Healthy Smiles, Healthy Children: The Foundation of the American Academy of Pediatric Dentistry was like many membership association foundations when it was established in 1987. We set out to support research and other activities that helped our members.

We had grown to a respectable $10 million in assets during our first 20 years. By about 2008, however, we had a growing sense that we could do more to harness that talents and expertise of America's pediatric dentists.

Thanks to the inspired vision of several Academy and Foundation leaders, notably Drs. Joel Berg, David Curtis, Paul Kennedy Jr., Beverly Largent and Jerry Miller, Healthy Smiles, Healthy Children has evolved into a charity that continues to grow financially while it becomes more public service oriented.

I'm proud of our accomplishments, which include

- Continued growth of our Access to Care Grants. In 2010, we released our first five Access to Care Grants totaling slightly less than $100,000. In July 2013, we issued 15 new grants totaling nearly $270,000. Thanks to 331 applications received for our 2014 grants, we're optimistic we'll reach our goal to award up to $400,000 to 20 organizations next summer.
- Leadership and Advanced Leadership Institutes are growing. Our fourth cohort for Leadership Institute will convene at the Kellogg School of Management at Northwestern University in December 2013, adding 30 members to the ranks of the 90 who participated in Cohorts I through III. Plans also are underway for our second Advanced Leadership Institute at the Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania starting in 2015.
- Contributions and member participation are on the rise. AAPD members continue to demonstrate their generosity with total membership giving and participation increasing each of the last three years.

Our greatest assets, however, do not appear on any balance sheet. Our greatest assets are the passion and expertise of pediatric dentists, who are central to everything we do. It is our connection with the nation's largest network of pediatric dentists that makes Healthy Smiles, Healthy Children an emerging force in child oral health philanthropy.

The HSHC Board of Trustees last May established our vision that Every child has a Dental Home. The challenge before us is great, but the collective strength of the people and the organizations reflected in these pages is even greater.

Thank you for your support of Healthy Smiles, Healthy Children.

Sincerely,

John S. Rutkauskas, DDS, MBA, CAE
AAPD/HSHC Chief Executive Officer

Helping the Underserved: 100,000 Kids and Counting...

Access to Care Grants

Tooth decay is the most common infection among American children – it is five times more common than asthma and seven times more common than hay fever. The U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention report child tooth decay is worsening; cavities among preschool children are increasing for the first time in 40 years.

While these health trends are alarming, decay rates and their effects on overall health and well being are greater among the 50 percent of U.S. children who lack access to adequate dental care. Nearly three-quarters of preschoolers and nearly half of primary school aged children who've experienced tooth decay currently have unfilled cavities.

Children with oral infections, cavities and pain not only suffer from specific dental health maladies, their condition can lead to other systemic health issues, malnutrition from lessened ability to chew, and school difficulties caused by pain and distraction.

Healthy Smiles, Healthy Children has embarked on a national effort to fund dentist-led, community-based initiatives providing dental care to children from families who cannot afford it. Including grants issued in July 2013, the Foundation has released more than $700,000 in grant support to organizations in 17 states. We're continuously learning how the Foundation can leverage pediatric dentists' expertise to attack this growing national health problem. Our Access to Care Grants have helped more than 100,000 children receive care since 2010.

Thanks to our connection to the 8,800-member American Academy of Pediatric Dentistry, the Foundation can address this growing health problem by accessing the passion, generosity and expertise of pediatric dentists like no other national child oral health charity.

Healthy Smiles, Healthy Children is grateful to these Access to Care Grantees for their efforts to provide Dental Homes to underserved children in their communities.

Dental Home Day

Orange Blossom Family Health Center in Orlando, Fla., played host to the first Healthy Smiles, Healthy Children Dental Home Day, a day of service that kicked off the 2013 AAPD Annual Session. Forty AAPD members, affiliated volunteers, and staff helped provide free dental care to 91 homeless children during Dental Home Day, to be held each year during the Annual Session.

Dental Home Day is unlike other dental service days because participating patients will receive ongoing care supported by HSHC Access to Care Grants totaling $35,000. Besides volunteering, many AAPD members contributed another $10,000 to support Dental Home Day patients' ongoing care.

The event will be sponsored through 2015 by Sunstar Americas, Inc., thanks to a three-year, $225,000 commitment.

Thank you to these volunteers who helped make the 2013 Dental Home Day a huge success:

Investing in Future Dental Leaders

Leadership Institute

The American Academy of Pediatric Dentistry and its foundation, Healthy Smiles, Healthy Children, recognize the value of developing future leaders. That's why, since 2004, the Academy and Foundation, with financial support of Ultradent Products, has partnered with the Kellogg School of Management at Northwestern University for their annual Leadership Institute.

Including Cohort IV, more than 120 Academy members have participated in the three-year program that brings students to Northwestern's Evanston, Ill., campus for four days each December.

A Dental Home is a partnership between the oral health team, the patient and his or her family with the goal of promoting, restoring and preserving health throughout that child's life. Ideally, this relationship should be established very early in life and should be available to all children.

A Dental Home from the rural Mississippi Delta is a vision. It's a vision for a place that provides complete and comprehensive dental care for a child. It becomes a primary place that a parent can have confidence and know that their child will be taken care of without being sent from place to place or turned away due to finances. This is the very reason why my wife Crystal and I support Healthy Smiles, Healthy Children to help provide an avenue for Dental Homes.

A Dental Home is a dental office where a child can become a patient at 12 months old or younger and expect to develop a history of regular, consistent visits personalized to meet the child's oral health needs. It should allow supervision of the child's oral health to maximize the advantages of preventive strategies and modalities and ensure treatment of existing disease and prevention of new disease. It should be consistently available for management of emergency needs and prepared to manage the developing and changing dentition of the growing child.

An ideal Dental Home is when a child becomes very comfortable with a dentist at an early age. There is really no better way for parents to provide the best possible oral health for their child, from infancy through the teen years, setting the stage for a healthy adult.
