OPPORTUNITIES
42 Seeking Pediatric Dentist
49 Practice for Sale
As the incoming AAPD President, I have been blessed with the opportunity to meet and work closely with amazing and gifted pediatric dentists from across the country and around the world. When I discussed joining AAPD leadership with Dr. Kevin Donly, he gave me the same advice that he gave our past president Dr. Joe Castellano, which was, “You should do it if you want to meet the greatest people that you will ever meet and have more fun than you ever thought possible.” And having joined leadership and experienced all of the ways the AAPD positively impacts the oral health of children, I have found that to be the perfect summation of my experience with the Academy.

I have been invigorated by the enthusiasm and dedication of our colleagues and fellow members, humbled by the wisdom and foresight of my predecessors, and renewed by the newest professionals joining our organization. Among all of our members, across all stages of their careers, runs the common trait of a deep and unshakable compassion for children. This trait unites us as a profession and our growing membership reflects this commitment to care. Our recent Annual Session in Toronto was a celebration of our unifying core values and commitment to children’s health.

Every one of our members expresses their commitment to children and vision of optimal oral health for all children in their own very unique way by using their own very unique skillset. This is the "Art of Pediatric Dentistry."

But how do you define art? Many would argue that you cannot define art. And they wouldn't be wrong. If you asked ten people to define art, you may end up with 20 or more definitions. I have my own definition of art and it is that, “Art is controlling the uncontrollable.” A painter will use brushes to apply pigmented, uncontrollable liquids to a canvas to produce an image that can bring out emotion from its viewer. And that is art. A sculptor sees a block of marble and chisels away at it to release the figure hidden inside. And that is art. A photographer captures the light on a subject at an instant that memorializes a memory and experience that can be shared. And that is art.

As pediatric dentists, we have all had “uncontrollable” patients in our dental chairs. And each of us has a unique skillset that works through our hands and minds to manage this situation to bring that patient closer to optimum oral health while also protecting a developing psyche and creating an experience that leads to more cooperative future visits. And that is art.

We use our special talents to combine the science of dental materials to recreate dental anatomy to repair the damage caused by dental decay, trauma, or simply to enhance esthetics. And that is art.

We choreograph a balanced dance with our dental hygienists, assistants, and front office team to efficiently apply our expertise for our patients, while artfully balancing the expectations and desires of our patients’ parents and guardians (another often uncontrollable factor). This requires an additional skillset from within our arsenal. But, yet, it’s still art.

All of these examples showcase the “Art of Pediatric Dentistry.” Our expertise and compassion combine to make us truly artists with children’s oral health and developing psyches as our mediums. Each member of our Academy brings their own unique abilities, talents, personal and professional experiences, and training to the table when honing their artistic skillsets. As a practitioner, there are facets of dentistry that I excel at whereas my colleagues excel at others. It is our responsibility to accept this and learn from each other so that our patients will thrive.

As an Academy, together, we must create an environment of life-long learning from each other peer-to-peer and generation-to-generation so we can all celebrate our artistic selves so we can all thrive. I am looking forward to an artful and impactful year as we advance on our own paths toward our common vision of optimum oral health for all children. Now go forth and create art!

Please note that although the proposed budget reflects a negative balance, historically, at the end of the fiscal year the AAPD has consistently shown a balanced budget or a new profit. This is because in the budgeting process we estimate expenses aggressively and income conservatively, and do not include unearned income (investments) in budget projections.

REQUEST FOR NOMINATIONS

NORTHCENTRAL DISTRICT TRUSTEE

The AAPD is accepting nominations for a trustee position in the NorthCentral District. Current Trustee Colleen Collins Greene will rotate off the Academy’s board of trustees at the conclusion of the 2025 Annual Session. Nominations for a new trustee from the NorthCentral District, for a three year term of service beginning in 2025 and concluding in 2028, are now being accepted. Nominations must be transmitted to AAPD Headquarters from the respective districts for these positions. The nominations packet must be received at the AAPD headquarters office, to the attention of Lisa Gunderson, no later than Sept. 1, 2024. Candidates are therefore urged to send their completed* packet to the respective district by Aug. 14, to allow time for the district to forward the packet.

Nominations can be transmitted in one of two manners:

- Individuals from the NorthCentral district can submit a nomination by including:
  - A letter signed by ten AAPD voting (Active or Life) members from the district signifying support of the nomination.
  - An AAPD nomination form signed and dated by the Nominee

- An AAPD state chapter in the NorthCentral district can submit a nomination by including:
  - A letter, signed and dated, from the president of the recognized state chapter certifying that the nomination is an official action of the state chapter.
  - The AAPD nomination form, signed and dated by the Nominee.

Under either scenario, the completed nomination packet must be forwarded to the respective district organization: NorthCentral President Dr. Risa Arielle Hurwich, who will in turn forward these materials to the AAPD headquarters.

The required materials from nominees are the following:

1. Completed and signed Nomination form;
2. A one-page essay explaining their interest in serving in the specific office and summarizing their leadership skills;
3. A background description suitable for publishing in Pediatric Dentistry Today;
4. A photograph in electronic format suitable for publication in Pediatric Dentistry Today;
5. Three letters of recommendation from voting members of the Academy.

If two or more candidates are nominated, the AAPD will conduct an electronic ballot of each AAPD voting member in the district in order to select the trustee.

The nominations packet must be received at the AAPD Headquarters office, to the attention of Lisa Gunderson, no later than Sept. 1, 2024.

* Electronic submission is preferred. The required three letters of recommendation should be sent directly to AAPD Headquarters (attention: Lisa Gunderson, lgunderson@aapd.org); they do not have to be included in the packet submitted to the district chapter or forwarded by the district chapter to AAPD.

The AAPD Nominations Form may be downloaded from the AAPD website members-only area under Governance Documents (Candidate Nomination Forms).

IMPROVING PEDIATRIC ORAL HEALTH IN EL PASO

The Texas Tech Woody L. Hunt School of Dental Medicine in El Paso, Texas, is the first dental school in Texas in over 50 years, the only dental school on the U.S.-Mexico border, and the newest dental school in Texas. Our mission is to enhance oral health for the people of Texas and the greater El Paso community, with a special focus on improving oral and overall health in the border population.

The Student Chapter of the American Academy of Pediatric Dentistry (SCAAPD) at our school is only three years old, but we’ve already made a significant impact on our community. El Paso’s ratio of dentists to residents is 1:4,840, indicating a significant lack of dental resources. Additionally, 26 percent of El Paso residents and nearby counties have no form of health care coverage.

As SCAAPD, we set out to make a difference in pediatric dental health. Over the past three years, we’ve established three annual events: Give Kids A Smile, Neighborhood Smiles, and Sun City Smiles. At each event, we focus on diagnosis, treatment planning, cleaning, and educating a new generation about oral health. These events target elementary schools in low-income neighborhoods near our campus. By making these events annual, we can monitor children’s oral health and gradually increase their dental education, leading to improved oral hygiene. In these three years, we’ve served 490 kids and seen steady progress in their oral health.

To improve oral health for this next generation, a few of the SCAAPD officers attend the AAPD Annual Session each year. This allows us to increase our knowledge about the latest research, advancements, and technology used in the pediatric community. Attending these conferences enables us to bring back innovative ideas and best practices to our local community. We then implement these new strategies in our outreach events and clinical activities, ensuring that we’re providing the best possible care and education to the children we serve. By staying up to date with industry developments, we can continually improve our programs and make a lasting impact on pediatric oral health in our area.

The Texas Tech Woody L. Hunt School of Dental Medicine and SCAAPD are deeply committed to serving the greater El Paso community. We believe that our mission extends beyond just providing dental care; it’s about fostering a culture of health and education that can transform lives. By collaborating with local elementary schools, attending conferences, and engaging in community outreach, we are implementing positive changes for generations to come.

2024 AAPD Resident Recognition Awards

The AAPD Pediatric Dental Resident Committee developed the “Resident Recognition Award” to recognize pediatric dental residents doing innovative and interesting activities in their training programs. Selected residents are awarded with a monetary prize $200.

Winners are chosen based on activities during residency that contribute to one or more of the following fields: patient care, education (i.e., teaching), research, and community service. Innovation, time commitment, and significance of service to others are the primary factors considered in the selection process.

AAPD AT MSDA

On May 5-7, 2024, members of AAPD’s Pediatric Dental Medicaid and CHIP Advisory Committee (PDMCAC) attended the annual Oral Health Symposium of MSDA (Medicaid, Medicare CHIP Services Dental Association) held in northern Virginia. MSDA is the national membership non-profit corporation that represents all state Medicaid and CHIP dental programs, directors and staff, as well as individuals and corporate vendors from across the nation that aim to improve the oral health of all Medicaid, Medicare, and CHIP beneficiaries. The AAPD maintains a position on the MSDA board of directors (held by Dr. Scott Cashion) and is also a member of MSDA’s Corporate Roundtable.

AAPD Top Appropriations Priority Fares Well in Final FY 2024 Federal Appropriations Agreement

Congress finally approved final funding for federal fiscal year (FY) 24 budget, completing the appropriations process for this FY (Oct. 1, 2023 – Sept. 30, 2024). President Biden signed the $1.2 trillion spending bill into law on March 23, 2024, as P.L. 118-47. This avoided a government shutdown. The legislation includes funding for dental-related programs that address access to care, oral health literacy, dental research and workforce development, including the AAPD’s top appropriations priority: Title VII Pediatric Dentistry funding.

The bill includes following report language:

“The Committee directs HRSA to provide continuation funding for section 748 post-doctoral training grants, predoctoral dental grants, and dental faculty loan repayment program [DFLRP] grants. The Committee directs HRSA to initiate a new DFLRP grant cycle with a preference for pediatric dentistry faculty supervising dental students or residents and providing clinical services in dental clinics located in dental schools, hospitals, and community-based affiliated sites.” [From Senate report 118-84, July 27, 2023: https://www.congress.gov/118/crpt/srpt84/CRPT-118srpt84.pdf]

This reflects level funding for Title VII Pediatric Dentistry.

The reference to directives in the Senate report adopts the following language obtained via AAPD’s advocacy:

“Oral Health Training. The agreement includes not less than $15,000,000 for State Oral Health Workforce grants, not less than $13,000,000 for General Dentistry programs, and not less than $13,000,000 for Pediatric Dentistry programs. The agreement reiterates the directives found under this program in Senate Report 118-84.”

The AAPD acknowledges the hard work of Congressional Liaisons Drs. Warren Brill and Jade Miller, in collaboration with the AAPD’s Washington, D.C. lobbyist Ms. Julie Allen and her team at Powers. Advocacy by attendees at the AAPD’s Pediatric Oral Health Advocacy Conference in Washington, D.C. in both 2023 and 2024 was also important for this successful outcome.
AAPD Submits Written Testimony to U.S. Senate HELP Committee
Statement Recommends a Broad Array of Federal Policies to Promote Optimal Oral Health for All Children

On May 16, 2024, the U.S. Senate Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions (HELP) Committee held a hearing to discuss various ways to make oral health care more accessible and affordable for Americans. This included support for workforce strategies, Medicaid adult dental benefits, oral health literacy, and student debt relief.

The AAPD submitted a written Statement for the Record that detailed a number of priority AAPD federal policy recommendations such as:

• Support the HRSA Title VII oral health program, including the Dental Faculty Loan Repayment Program (DFLRP).
• Pass the Resident Education Deferred Interest (REDI) Act.
• Support the AAPD’s rural oral health call to action RPC report issued in 2023.
• Improve the Affordable Care Act (ACA) by:
  • Making pediatric oral health coverage mandatory for families with children, either through an appropriately structured stand-alone dental plan (SADP) or embedded medical plan.
  • Exempting preventive dental services from any cost sharing (deductibles or co-pays) in embedded medical plans and SADPs, and require separate dental deductibles in embedded plans.
  • Pass S. 3597, the Promoting Dental Health Act, to reauthorize the Division of Oral in the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC).
• Provide adequate resources for the Chief Dental Officer at the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS).

The ADA also submitted a written statement that highlighted key data trends in different age groups. They indicated that over the past two decades there has been steady improvements among children, particularly for low-income and non-White children. Several states’ dental care utilization rates for Medicaid-insured children rival those provided to privately-insured children.

For any questions, please contact Chief Operating Officer and General Counsel C. Scott Litch at 773-938-4759 or slitch@aapd.org.

Waterline Safety Mock Trial and Expert Insights to Ward Off Scary Situations

On Sunday, May 26, the Safety Committee launched a new format for Annual Session CE: a mock trial that examined malpractice and equipment manufacturer liability. Originally scripted for the annual conference of the Organization for Safety, Asepsis and Prevention, the imitation court hearing showed realistic and common situations, perspectives and testimony as lawyers questioned the defendant manufacturer and plaintiff pediatric dentist over the circumstances that led to a Mycobacterium abscessus outbreak among pediatric dental patients. The audience decided the verdict and had an opportunity to ask their questions on waterline monitoring and maintenance to infection control and dental unit waterline experts in attendance. The session was recorded and will be available for CE credit on AAPD’s Education Passport.

Council on Clinical Affairs (CCA) and Council on Scientific Affairs (CSA) Meet & Greet at AAPD 2024 Luncheon

Members joined for the first meeting of the year at AAPD 2024 in Toronto to put names to faces, celebrate a year of hard work reviewing and analyzing emerging science and translating it into clinical practice, and prepare for the next Reference Manual document cycle. The group tuned in to outgoing chairs, Dr. Thomas Stark (CCA) and Dr. Anna (Jung Wei) Chen (CSA), as they received their certificates of participation on the councils and welcomed new chairs, Dr. Erica Caffrey (CCA) and Dr. Jessica Webb (CSA). Additionally, staff member Rachel Wedeward presented an onboarding presentation for new members of the CCA and “Tips & Tricks for Pub Med Searches.”
As dental clinicians, we encounter oral health problems daily and can typically arrive at the primary or root cause of the problem instantaneously.... or do we? Case in point, we have a 4-year-old patient that presents with a parulis at the buccal aspect of the upper right primary first molar. Further inspection, by way of clinical and radiographic exam, reveals a large carious lesion that has encroached upon the pulp tissue of the upper right primary first molar. Our immediate explanation for the patient’s parent is that the cavity caused the abscess that led to the parulis. But is the cavity the “root cause” of the abscess?

Let’s break this down further. What is the problem: the abscess. Why did the abscess occur: carious encroachment onto the pulp tissue. Why did the cavity occur: poor hygiene habits. Why do we have poor hygiene habits: parental lack of dental education and involvement. We can see that the parent’s lack of dental education and involvement ultimately led to the above-mentioned parulis. The cavity, just like the abscess, is merely a symptom of poor oral hygiene that stems from the lack of the patient’s parents’ dental education and involvement.

We, as pediatric dentists, know the above case story and root cause all too well. It serves as a simple example of an effective interrogative technique for root cause analysis known as the 5 Whys Analysis Process. This process is considered an effective approach to problem-solving and can be utilized for any problem-solving needs. Taiichi Ohno, a Japanese industrial engineer and manager at Toyota Motor Corporation, developed the 5 Whys Analysis Process. He believed that by repeating “Why” five times whenever we find a problem, the nature of the problem as well as its solution becomes clear. Keep in mind that “5” is just a number. Ask “Why” as many times as you need to complete the process and arrive at the underlying cause or causes of the problem at hand.

Below is a sample 5 Why Template. The template provides a structured process for conducting the analysis. The template can and should be tailored to align with specific types of problems or requirements.

1. What is the problem?
2. Why did the problem occur?
3. Why did the reason in question 2 happen?
4. Why did the reason in question 3 happen?
5. Why did the reason in question 4 happen?
6. Why did the reason in question 5 happen?

It is also important to include all involved or familiar with the process that is going to be investigated. This will help you collect enough information to help you make an informed decision and apply the corrective action to stop the problem.

Here is another example: Let’s say you are suddenly experiencing incidences of your etch syringe tip disengaging when attempting to etch a tooth. This is causing the tip to launch into the patient’s mouth creating a potential choking/aspiration/ingestion hazard and resulting in a large amount of etch contacting your patient both intra- and extra-orally. This is a problem that needs a solution. You assemble your clinical team and begin with the 5 Whys:

Define the problem: etch tips are disengaging.

Why - are they disengaging? The syringe tips are not locking into the syringe.

Why - are the tips not locking into the syringe? The wrong tips are being used.

Why - are the wrong tips being used? The newest staff member in charge of chair set-up was not properly instructed on which tips to use with the specific dispensing syringes.

Why - was she not instructed properly? We only have one primary training assistant, and she has been out on maternity leave.

Why - are we not crosschecking for each other and most importantly, for the newest staff member? No good answer was provided.
Evidence-Based Dentistry Award Recognitions

Publications from AAPD’s EBD workgroups were widely recognized at the Annual Session this year by the AAPD membership. During the General Assembly, Dr. Jim Coll was awarded the Paul P. Taylor Award for the latest systematic review on pulp therapy in primary teeth published in November 2023.

The Behavior Guidance workgroup was awarded the Suzi Seale Coll Evidence-Based Dentistry Award for its work on the behavior guidance clinical practice guideline published in September 2023.

We exhausted the “whys”, and the primary root cause of this safety concern has been identified as the lack of proper training/instruction for the new staff member. There are other reasons that have arisen from this questioning. For example, we need more than one staff member to be able to train new clinical assistants and ensure they are performing to our office standards. We should also be crosschecking and verifying each other’s work and material use. Other good habits discussed in patient care include use of a rubber dam and the assistant expressing etch from the syringe prior to using it in the patient’s mouth. We started with one problem and now have several good solutions.

When in need to perform a 5 Whys Analysis, assemble your team, define your problem, start asking why, discover the root cause(s) and apply the best solution that will prevent your problem from recurring.

2024 Joint Academic Day

Almost 200 academics met on Wednesday, May 22, for the 2024 Joint Academic Day in Toronto, Canada. The day started with a keynote presentation from Dr. Clive Friedman on conflict resolution. This was followed by an interactive solution-focused workshop, a new type of session we wanted to try out, which was an absolute success and received lots of positive feedback. Another favorite was Dr. Bruce Freeman’s presentation, “Healthcare 2.0: The Art and Science of Mindful and Collaborative Communication.” It was very interesting and informative, offering many practical tips. Academics working in pre- and post-doctoral education then broke out for individual sessions and group work in the afternoon.

Presentations from the day are available on the annual session website and app. If no presentation and/or handouts are posted, that means the speaker(s) opted out of sharing their presentations.

America’s Pediatric Dentists
The Big Authority on little teeth
There are so many ways in which you can find a ‘home’ for your dental practice. Some people buy a building outright, others lease a space and build it out to their needs. Others yet buy a multi-unit complex, occupy a unit, and become landlords to other professional practices, like attorneys, other doctors, etc. Others yet may locate some land and build a structure from the ground up. Whichever path you pursue, your lender and/or landlord will want certain assurances.

If you’re renting, your landlord will want similar peace of mind. In short, you will need to provide proof of certain kinds of insurance.

Today, we’ll give you an overview of the commonly encountered insurance coverage and then help you identify which ones may apply to your situation. Keep in mind, every lender is different, and so is every landlord. What we will go over today should only serve as a guideline; refer to your lender or landlord for the specifics in your case.

The “Big Five” – these are the five most common types of coverage you may encounter.

1. Building Coverage. Just like the name says, this is insurance to cover your building. How much you need depends on the replacement cost of the building, which can vary greatly depending on location. The replacement cost is usually not equal to the purchase price. Keep in mind that building coverage does not include anything inside the building such as equipment or furnishings.

2. Business Personal Property. For lack of a better term, Business Personal Property coverage (or “BPP” for short) refers to the insurance you’ll need to replace all your “stuff.” Dental “stuff” would be, say, your waiting room furniture, all the equipment you use in your practice, from X-Ray machines to computers and phones, to the hundreds of items in your supply area. If you could physically pick up your practice and shake it upside down, your business personal property would be all the things that would fall out. The limits on this kind of coverage vary widely, depending on how much “stuff” you have in your office. Who determines how much coverage you need for BPP? It’s entirely up to you. You need to gauge what it would cost to replace everything in the event of a total loss.

3. Improvements and Betterments. Another term for this is “buildout.” Basically, improvements and betterments are all the things you do to improve or better an existing space. Many leases require the building owner to restore the exterior to its original condition prior to a loss, but the tenant is responsible for restoring their own space. In other words, if the building is damaged due to a fire, the tenant’s improvements and betterments coverage will help them restore their space into a functioning practice again.
4. General liability. You’ll need general liability coverage whether you own the building, or you lease a space. The first thing everyone always thinks of is a slip and fall, but there are many other applications. It’s impossible to go through an exhaustive list of circumstances where general liability would apply. In essence, it protects the practice from liability associated with incidents of bodily injury, property damage, and personal injury that fall outside the scope of a worker’s compensation and malpractice policy.

5. Builder’s Risk. Builder’s Risk is a little different from all the other coverages we have named so far. It’s needed if the doctor is either building a building from the ground up or doing a complete renovation of an office. During construction, the doctor wouldn’t get a business owner’s policy with building coverage and BPP quite yet, because there is no fully functioning practice. Instead, they would get a builder’s risk policy until the build out or the renovations are completed. In some cases, a contractor will carry a builder’s risk policy while working on the space. This may or may not satisfy the lender and/or the landlord so it’s important to clarify before construction begins.

Now that you know what kinds of coverages you’re likely to encounter, let’s see which ones would apply to you...

ARE YOU LEASING A SPACE FROM A LANDLORD?

If you are leasing the space in which you operate your practice, you will need the following coverages within your Business Owner’s Policy:

- Business Personal Property Coverage
- Improvements and Betterments Coverage
- Liability Coverage

Bank Requirements

The bank will require one of three Loss Payee clauses:

- “Loss Payee” (this is who gets paid in the event of a loss)
- “Lender’s Loss Payee” (this provision ensures that the lender’s interest is protected, even if acts of the borrower invalidate the policy in some way; in short, it’s additional insurance for the lender)
- “Lender’s Loss Payable” (A loss payable clause is an insurance contract endorsement where an insurer pays a third party for a loss instead of the named insured or beneficiary. Source: Investopedia)

DO YOU OWN THE BUILDING?

If you own the building, you will need multiple coverages within the confines of your Business Owner’s Policy:

- Building Coverage
- Business Personal Property Coverage
- Liability Coverage

Note that if you have tenants, your liability coverage would protect the real estate entity that owns the building (if they were to be named in a lawsuit) from an incident that happened in your tenants space as well.

Bank Requirements

The bank will require one of three Loss Payee clauses:

- Loss Payee
- Lender’s Loss Payee
- Lender’s Loss Payable

Since you own the building (presumably financed) the bank will also require to be named in the Mortgagee clause.
DO YOU OWN A CONDO WITHIN THE BUILDING?

If you own a condo unit, you will need several coverages within the confines of your Business Owner’s Policy:

- A Condo Unit Owner Endorsement (which is a special modification that treats the Improvements and Betterments coverage more in line the needs of a condo owner rather than the building owner or tenant)
- Business Personal Property Coverage
- Liability Coverage

Bank Requirements

The bank will require one of three Loss Payee clauses

- Loss Payee
- Lender’s Loss Payee
- Lender’s Loss Payable

A Mortgagee clause would be provided through the Condo Association’s Master Policy.

BUILDING THE BUILDING ON A VACANT LOT OR DOING A FULL RENOVATION OF AN EXISTING BUILDING

If you’re starting from scratch, or gutting a building to do a full renovation, you will need a Builder’s Risk policy to protect you during the buildout phase.

Once the buildout is complete, you will need to make sure you have within your Business Owner’s Policy, the following coverages:

- Building Coverage
- Business Personal Property Coverage
- Liability Coverage

Bank Requirements

The bank will require one of three Loss Payee clauses

- Loss Payee
- Lender’s Loss Payee
- Lender’s Loss Payable

Since you financed the building, the bank will also require to be named in the Mortgagee clause.

YOUR PRACTICE REAL ESTATE ADVENTURE NEEDS AN EXPERIENCED GUIDE

There you have it! It’s quite a lot to digest, but once you are familiar with the terms, you will be able to better navigate the landscape. Whether you are leasing, or buying, or building from scratch, we wish you all the very best with your practice real estate venture. If you have any questions at all, our experienced team is here for you.

For Knee-to-Knee Infant Oral Exams

Stay N Place® Lap Board

Our customers tell us they love the Stay N Place® Lap Board and the Stay N Place® Lap Cushion. They both make infant oral exams safer and more pleasant by providing a hygienic platform that keeps the baby secure, reassures parents, and is less awkward for the adults.

The Stay N Place® Lap Board is made of a rigid platform, layered with foam and upholstered in soft, durable vinyl. It easily accommodates older and/or heavier infants.

Stay N Place® Lap Cushion

The Stay N Place® Lap Cushion is a molded foam product that provides firm support during infant oral exams. Like the Lap Board, it has side rails for safety but also has the “cushiness” that parents appreciate.
